

Raffle Information

Details of the raffle process before and on the day of the event.

Here's a quick explanation of how our raffle works:

- Artists donate an item from their collection to AitPSLH for the raffle. Proceeds from the raffle allow us to add art "in" the park (such as those that will be around you at the event) for the benefit of all who visit. You can submit your item at artintheparkstl.com/raffle-submit.
- Because artists work in a variety of mediums, we do not require a minimum value. It is only suggested that it be a fair representation of your work.
- A photo and description of items submitted for raffle are printed in the event program along with your company name and location around the lily pond.
- Each visitor receives an event program upon entering the park and uses that booklet as a guide for the day (and the raffle!!)
- Art in the Park will provide all participating artists with a collection box and raffle sign. Your raffle item and ticket box will remain in your tent until you pull the winner at 4:00 p.m.
- Customers purchase raffle tickets from the Raffle Booths located at both ends of the lily pond. You do not need to worry about selling tickets. (Psst! You will be too busy with customers visiting your booth!)
- Customers travel throughout the show, visiting each booth, placing raffle tickets in the box for the item they wish to win.
- At 4:00 p.m., Art in the Park volunteers will ask you to pull the winning ticket, and then they will collect the raffle item and the raffle box.
- We will take care of contacting the winners.

The raffle is great way to get a picture of your work in the event program and increase the traffic to your booth while helping us raise money for art in our park!
